

CPFilms Name Change Embraces Future Growth

Having been a leader in the window film industry for years, CPFilms is the world's largest window film manufacturer and the leading supplier of high performance precision-coated films.

While proud of our heritage, we believe that our name should reflect not only the offerings we have today, but embrace our desire to capture new opportunities, enter new end markets and provide high-quality technical solutions for our customers. Therefore, the business conducted by CPFilms will now be known as Solutia's Performance Films Division.

How does this change how our business is structured? It doesn't. This change is part of an overall brand strategy for Solutia that captures both who we are as a company, while allowing us to define who we want to be in the future. The new name will allow us to leverage the brand equity in Solutia, an internationally recognized and publicly traded specialty chemicals and performance materials company, while continuing to put our product brands in the forefront.

We understand that positioning our division as Performance Films and moving away from the CPFilms name will take adjustment. However, we believe this is a positive change that positions our division for growth while building the success and reputation of our world-class brands.

I thank you for your support and assure you this move is a positive one.

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Sal A. Abbate". The signature is fluid and cursive, with a long horizontal flourish extending to the right.

Sal Abbate
Vice President, Global Sales and Marketing, Performance Films